A mighty mask that can multitask

Posted Thursday, April 01, 2010

Usually, a mask has one distinct purpose: clarifying or exfoliating or fighting fine lines—or being the key word. HydroPeptide, however, wasn't content creating a mask that excels at just one beauty benefit.

The Instant Peptide Miracle Mask brings together ingredients you don't normally see in a single formula, allowing it to have a manifold impact. First, there's two kinds of clay, bentonite and kaolin, which detoxify pores by absorbing the excess oil that's clogging them. The clay is joined by enzymes, which amps up exfoliation and, thus, your complexion's radiance.

Instant Peptide Miracle Mask also plenty of antioxidants to help strengthen your skin's defenses, such as vitamin A and green tea. And as you may have guessed, there are plenty of peptides that start smoothing wrinkles as soon as they make contact.

Come to think of it, we can't remember the last time we saw peptides in a mask—alone or with an unexpected team of high-performance components. But we're glad they're in there, helping to make this mask truly multi-talented.
